Contents

This workshop will:

- ◆ Assist you to use a service development framework to plan how your service can be more person centred;
- ◆ Explore key concepts and elements in person centred approaches;
- ◆ Contrast person centered approaches with other approaches;
- ◆ Discuss barriers to implementing a person centred approach and how they can be overcome.

Designed for:

The Better Practice Project is delighted to sponsor this workshop which is targeted at Service Leaders including CEOs, senior managers, members of consumer groups and anyone who has a role which influences the workings of HACC services. The content has specifically been developed in line with the person centred approach outlined in the HACC Triennial Plan - 2008– 2010-11

Presented by:

Jane Sherwin, Sherwin & Associates, is a national consultant who has been involved in the lives of older people and people with disabilities since the late 1970s, also working with groups and organisations around values based quality, person centred approaches and leadership development. Jane has worked in government and community services as an occupational therapist, lecturer, manager and change agent. Recently she worked with agencies around person centred approaches through workshops and reviews of service structures which foster personalised approaches. She is committed to work at a grassroots level towards responsive services and supports whereby vulnerable people experience meaningful lives and greater levels of control over their own support.
