

What rights do unions have to enter your workplace? New laws apply from 1 July 2009.

Want to know your rights as an employer/occupier of premises?

All employers should know their rights and obligations with respect to 'right of entry' under the new Fair Work Act 2009 from 1 July 2009.

EMA Consulting is holding free information sessions for employers to outline the right of entry laws and subsequent implications this may have on your organisation.

These sessions will summarise the laws affecting the rights and obligations for both unions and employers when right of entry is sought for discussions with employees, suspected breaches of the Fair Work Act 2009 and for OHS purposes. If managed incorrectly these situations can have significant implications on your workplace.

The duration of the seminar is expected to be approximately one hour, and will contain practical tips and processes for managing these situations. As seats are limited, we request that only employers who employ less than 100 employees register for these sessions. Please feel free to forward this invitation to any interested parties.

Information Session Dates

Wednesday 24 June 2009: 8:00 am – 9:00 am (registration from 7:45 am)

Wednesday 24 June 2009: 4:00 pm – 5:00 pm (registration from 3:45 pm)

Location

EMA Consulting
Level 2, 82 Waymouth Street, Adelaide

Reservations (max. 2 attendees per organisation)

Please complete and return this form by fax to 08 8221 6660 or email it to deb.nobel@emaconsulting.com.au.

Company:

Address:

Attendee 1:

Attendee 2:

Email:

Phone:

Session Preference: (tick to select) 8:00 am 4:00 pm

Note: You will receive confirmation of your booking within 2 days of submitting your registration, please contact us if you do not receive this.

REGISTRATIONS CLOSE: Friday 19 June 2009

EMA Consulting – Professional Development Seminars and Workshops 2009
Level 1, 82 Waymouth Street Adelaide SA 5000
Phone: 08 8221 6665

emaconsulting

